SILESIA KNOT CUT

House Asserts European Stability Is Near Possibility

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, August 16.—While recalling the difficulties in which the Supreme Council found itself when it came to loggerheads, the Petit Parisien emphasises that the discussions disclosed a strong desire to agree, and it readily acknowledges that both sides showed themselves resolved to go to any length to safeguard the friendship between the British Empire and France.

The Petit Parisien proceeds to express the hope that, now the Upper-Silesian question has been removed from the sphere of diplomacy, no serious divergence of opinion should prevent France and Great Britain from coming to an understanding on a common policy towards Poland and Germany.

"The problem, on the solution of which depends the consolidation of the Entente, consists in bringing interests into harmony with sentiments."

Colonel House, in an article republished in the Petit Parisien expresses his satisfaction at the reference of the Upper-Silesian question to the Council of the League of Nations. Europe, he argues, needs stability, and this measure indicates that a way has been found to attain it.

The Homme Libre also welcomes the decision of the Supreme Council. "We have saved our dignity," it says, "while remaining faithful alike to our opinions and to our friends, and after showing the utmost spirit of conciliation." It affirms, in conclusion, that the French Government can face Parliament with confidence.

Rejoices In Alliance Standing The Strain

(Reuter's Service)

London, August 16.—In the House of Commons today Mr. Lloyd George said that the meeting of the Supreme Council last week was a most momentous one, in view of the questions which menaced the solidarity of the Alliance. Hence it was a matter for gratification that the spirit of the Alliance was now as strong as ever. (Cheers).

The Premier reviewed at length the Upper Silesian problem. It was, he said, in no wise difficult in itself, but it was complicated by French anxiety for the security of France. It would have been impossible earlier to refer the problem to the League of Nations because it was necessary first to get rid of the Polish insurrection. He assumed that the Council of the League would refer the problem to a committee of jurists or an arbitrator. It was most important that France, Italy, Japan and Britain were pledged beforehand to accept the decision of whatever body the Council nominated. The reputation and position and influence of the League would be considerably enhanced if it dealt successfully with this, the most important question yet submitted to it.

As regards the sanctions, it was the general feeling that the time had come gradually to reduce the military burden imposed upon Germany in respect of occupation, the cost of which hitherto had absorbed almost all the money which should have been available for reparations.

Mr. Asquith emphasised that the Premier's statement on the international situation was the most satisfactory since the armistice. He appealed to all to take the most sympathetic view of French feelings, because the ravages of the war in France were still heartrending. It was apparent that France's real securities for the future must be in the desire of the Great Powers to discountenance any aggression.

Mr. J. H. Thomas (Labor) said the Labor Party and the people of the country fully supported the Premier's Silesian attitude.

Mr. Barnes (Labor) also fully supported the Premier.

MARCH OF EVENTS

BY BRUCE HOPPER

FRANKENSTEIN'S monster, the horrible and evil parody on the Creator's will, made from fragments of men, shunned by all from whom it tried to obtain sympathy, exacted a swift and terrible retribution on its maker. Communism is now inflicting the same penalty upon its creators in Russia.

After three years plunging toward a nothingness in national existence Russia has, at length, arrived at the abyss, and sends out an agonised call for the quick arm of international mercy. Since the initiation of Bolshevism she has dwelt apart from the society of nations like a morbid thing unsexed. She has eaten strange flesh at her political banquets, and has drained to the lees the bitter liquors which fill the cup of social alteration.

FAMINE and pestilence are logical aftermaths of the cataclysmic Soviet doctrine that all land and crops belong to the state. Peasants, finding their corn confiscated by the military, till only enough ground to satisfy their own needs, so that townspeople starve even in bountiful seasons. And when the drought comes in the Volga basin the granaries are empty. Not less than 35 millions of Russian people are facing complete annihilation. The efforts of the nations to send food will save some but owing to poor transportation facilities many are doomed.

IS the famine a judgment upon Russia? Will the Soviets put their house in order, and either run the government along lines proved to be efficacious, or give way to Russians who will? Nearly every national renaissance in the past has been preceded by a great calamity. That miraculous bird, the Phoenix, had to be consumed by fire before it could rise from its ashes with brighter feathers, in a newer and happier existence.

It may be that the famine is the necessary agent to dispel the terrible thrall of nightmare which has hung over the Russian mind. It should but mark the dark hour before the dawn of Russian renaissance, and the renewed sympathy with sister nations of the world.

AS everybody expected Gabriel d'Annunzio's threat to quit the stage, when the Italian government sent a worthy general to Fiume to enforce the Rapallo treaty, has turned out merely an audible aside in the furioso technique. The soldier-dramatist is directing his Legionaries from some unmentioned port of refuge to prevent the passing of the port Baross to Jugo-Slavia, as laid down in the agreement.

Fiuem is again a seething little cauldron, and always will be so long as d'Annunzio is on the loose. His followers, called the Arditi, proclaim themselves the only loyal sons of Italy, and proceed to betray her to self-aggrandisement in the Adriatic. Another set of patriots in Italy, the Fascisti, make war on the radicals, so that Italy is torn with factional strife in a way reminiscent of the terrible Guelph-Ghibelline feuds of the 13th, 14th, and 15th centuries.

Italy has always been a hotbed of secret societies, but it must be remembered that the Garibaldi Red Shirts, who achieved Italian independence from Austria in 1858, were for a long time sub rosa. The Fascisti are perhaps as patriotic in their intentions as were the members of the Ku Klux Klan, or even the malcontents who use the name of the American Legion to intimidate municipal governments in the United States today.

SEARCHING for the Midas-touch has been man's greatest curse, and yet one his controlling instincts which lead to higher things. Although scientists of the 19th century laughed at the theories of alchemy, and the attempts to make gold from baser metals, modern experts are less certain of the ridiculousness of the ancient search. For we have seen helium spontaneously produced from radium, which transmutation of elements is the fundamental theory of old alchemy.

Yet it is startling to learn that a Russian chemist in Paris has convinced a board of directors that he can turn iron into gold. Furthermore, capital is not wanting to back his Roger Bacon schemes. Even titled families, people of unquestioned intelligence, are giving money to the laboratory wizard to make experiments on a large scale.

The search for the prima materia, the one essence of all substance according to the old theory, dates from the Alexandrian Greeks. The idea of the alchemists was to separate from this prima materia the imposed qualities which make substances different. To the pure prima materia, once identified as the "philosophers' mercury," would be added qualities nearer the heart's desire, such as those which would make gold.

As long as man exists he will continue to dream of the golden touch, of the fountain of everlasting youth, and of the philosopher's stone. The human desire for such things makes for the marriage between science and romance.

King Peter Of Servia Dies

(Reuter's Service)

Belgrade, August 16.—The death occurred here today of King Peter of Servia. Born in 1844, the deceased monarch was proclaimed King in June, 1903. He is succeeded by his son, Prince Alexander, born in 1888, his elder son, Prince George, having renounced his claim to the throne.

Peter Karageorgevich was a grandson of Karageorge, or "Black George," the famous leader of the Serbs in their first revolt against the Turks, 1804-13. The circumstances of his coming to the throne in 1903 furnished material for melodramatic plots of playwrights and novelists fifteen years ago.

In 1900 King Alexander, his predecessor, contracted a morganatic marriage with Draga, a lady-in-waiting to the queen-mother, who persuaded her royal husband to declare one of her brothers heir-apparent. The marriage was so unpopular that on June 11, 1903, conspirators entered the palace and assassinated both Alexander and Draga in one of the most savage regicides known to history.

Peter was proclaimed king, but all the powers withdrew their representatives from Belgrade as a protest against the attitude of the Serbian government toward the assassins. Great Britain held aloof until 1906, but other European nations sent official delegates to the corporation in 1904.

King Peter was a prominent figure in the early years of the war. He had a share in firing the spark which threw the world into war. After Belgrade fell, and all Serbia save the corner around Monastir was overrun by the Austrians he sought refuge in Italy and Switzerland. With the signing of the Armistice he re-entered Belgrade in triumph, and was instrumental in forming the Jugo-Slav union of Serbia, Montenegro, Bosnia and Herzegovina.

Italian Red Sea Coast Devastated By An Earthquake

Rome, Aug, 16.—Four persons were killed and twenty injured and several houses razed by an earthquake at Massowah, Eritrea.

Eritrea is that portion of the African shore of the Red Sea coast of Italian Somaliland stretching between Ras Kasar and Raheita. Its population is estimated (1910) as 450,000.

DE VALERA AGAIN SAYS SEPARATION IS SOLE AIM

Dail Eireann Ministry Is Only Gov't. Says De Valera

WAITING IN RAIN

Thousands Stand In The Street; 2,000 Crowd Historic Room

(Reuter's Service)

Dublin, August 16.—Crowds stood for hours in the pouring rain awaiting the opening at the Mansion House of the momentous session of the Dail Eireann, the first meeting since the election. Parliament sat in the historic Round Room. Parnell's portrait hung above the Speaker's chair.

There were 2,000 present, apart from the members of the Dail Eireann. The balcony of the Round Room was packed while men and women were standing or sitting in the front portion. The floor was reserved for members, who were accommodated in green leather benches, gorgeously upholstered, and divans and settees.

All sprang to their feet, cheering wildly, when Mr. de Valera and members of the Cabinet entered. Dead silence fell on the assembly when Mr. O'Kelly, recently returned from abroad, took the Speaker's chair. The chaplain read prayers in Irish. The roll-call evoked fresh enthusiasm. The House adjourned after electing the Speaker and Deputy-Speaker.

Mr. de Valera, addressing the Dail Eireann, reiterated Ireland's claim for separation from Britain. He said the only Government the people recognised was the Ministry of Dail Eireann. He said Dail Eireann's reply (to Mr. Lloyd George's last letter) which the British Government intended to make an issue of peace or war, would be discussed in private session. There would be another public session when the reply was ready. They could only deal with a foreign power on the basis of recognition of the Republic.

Lodge May Refuse To Lend Aid To Secty. Hughes

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, August 16.—President Harding has chosen Senator Lodge as a member of the American delegation at the Disarmament Conference, but it is understood that Senator Lodge has not accepted the appointment, owing to his unwillingness to serve under Mr. Hughes (Secretary of State), who heads the delegation.

According to the China Evening Post, President Hsu has written personally to Mr. Tang Shao-yi, former Southern peace delegate, to attend the coming Pacific Conference at Washington and negotiate with Dr. Sun Yat-sen for unanimity at the conference in order not to give the Japanese a chance to undermine China's proposal.

The Japanese press is already full of propaganda matter seeking to demonstrate to the world that it will be impossible for China to send a delegation representative of the country.

Problem Of Pacific Is Held To Be Basic

BY CHARLES H. GRASTY

London, July 14.—As heretofore indicated in these dispatches, the settlement of the Pacific problem is the heart of the whole scheme of the Washington conference. Until the future relationships of the powers fronting on the Pacific are clearly and definitely determined, disarmament cannot be undertaken.

Some of the comment, especially in France, has put the cart before the horse, because of a misapprehension that disarmament is first in the order of the agenda. Disarmament was emphasised in the call for the conference, as that question is more concrete and less in need of explanation. It is well understood by the Washington, London, Paris and Tokio Governments that the Pacific problem must be solved as a condition precedent to stopping new naval construction and it is a grave error to talk about

Wu Pei-fu, Man Of Mystery, And His Aides

THIS photograph of Wu Pei-fu and his chief of staff is the first to reach Shanghai since his appointment as High Inspector General. It was taken just before General Hsiao Yao-nan, seen on the left in uniform, left Honanfu to command the Wuhan armies. Wu Pei-fu is in civilian garb, the pleasant looking middle-aged man on the right. With him also in mufti in the center, is General Ma Fu-hsiang, Moslem Tutung of Suiyuan. When asked why he did not wear the stern look that usually characterises his photographs, General Wu smilingly answered that he saved his severe countenance for times when he was in uniform.

RUSSIAN FAMINE MOST TERRIBLE IN CENTURIES

Ll. George Calls Catastrophe Appalling; In Fear Of Pestilence

(Reuter's Service)

London, Aug. 16.—In the House of Commons Mr. Lloyd George declared that the Russian famine was the most terrible visitation Europe or the world had had for centuries. The British trade representative at Moscow had telegraphed that thirty-five millions of people required relief, that inhabitants of the famine districts were fleeing in masses, and appeared to be doomed to annihilation, and that parents were abandoning their children to their fate.

The Premier added that it was almost impossible to know what to do. Supplies, especially medical, were wanted to avert a European pestilence on a gigantic scale. Suggestions for relief by private organisations would be most valuable, but the catastrophe was so appalling that it demanded a great international effort.

The main problem, said Mr. Lloyd George, was transport, the refusal of the peasants to give up corn except in return for commodities, and the question of organisation in the famine area. The Soviet Government well knew that the supplies which would induce the peasants to part with their grain must come from outside, but that it was impossible to get such supplies unless the Soviet Government recognised its obligations for the supplies already sent to Russia and thus restore the confidence of the trading community and make them feel that they could send goods without danger of future confiscation.

NAMES COMMITTEE

The Premier announced that the British representatives on the International Commission were Sir Philip Lloyd-Greame, Sir John Hewett and Mr. J. O. Wardrop, the Consul at Moscow. The first-named was appointed in his capacity as Director of Overseas Trade, because an exchange of commodities must be organised. Sir John Hewett because of his unique experience in India with the sort of famine organisation which was necessary in the Russian famine area. There must be the most complete guarantees that the relief went to the distressed people. Hence the organisers of relief must co-operate with the local government machine.

Geneva, Aug. 16.—A conference of the International Red Cross Council has appointed a committee, comprising representatives of twenty-two governments and voluntary associations, besides Red Cross societies, to devise measures for the relief of the famine in Russia.

60 Million Acres Of Corn Lands Are Bare

Reval, Aug. 16.—Mr. Litvinoff (who was the first Soviet envoy to England) in the course of a statement mentions that sixty million acres in Russia are devastated by drought, and that sixty million poods of corn to feed the population and fifty-seven millions for seeding are absolutely required before September 1.

Tls. 600,000 Damage Suit Filed Against Fleming By Philippine National Bank

Allegation Made That While Acting For Plaintiff Attorney Disclosed Business Secrets To Other Shanghai Banks

Two claims for damages, aggregating Tls. 600,000, are made in a suit that was filed yesterday in the United States Court for China by the Philippine National Bank against Mr. William S. Fleming, senior member of the American law firm of Fleming, Daviesa nd Bryan.

The law suit is a development in the so-called 'Fleming Case' and is being filed at a time when two charges of criminal libel are pending against Mr. Fleming, one filed on compiaint of Mr. Manuel Concepcion, Assistant Manager of the Philippine National Bank and the other filed on complaint of Mr. Stirling Fessenden of the firm of Fessenden and Holcomb. A sentence of six months imprisonment passed upon Mr. Fleming for contempt of court in connection with one of these cases by Judge Lobingier is being referred to the Ninth District U. S. Court of Appeals in California.

Messrs. Fleming, Davies and Bryan formerly represented the Shanghai branch of the Philippine National Bank and in the suit the charge is made that while acting for the bank Mr. Fleming disclosed information he had obtained as attorney to other banks in Shanghai. By reason of these alleged disclosures it is set forth that losses of Tls. 500,000 were suffered by the bank. An additional Tls. 100,000 is claimed for damages alleged to have been caused from a letter Mr. Fleming is said to have written to Messrs. F. J. Schuhl and H. D. Rodgers.

TEXT OF PETITION

The plaintiffs are represented by the law firm of Ross and Laurence. The complete text of the petition in the case is as follows:

Philippine National Bank
Plaintiff.
vs.
William S. Fleming
Defendant.

PETITION

The plaintiff complains of the defendant and for cause of action alleges:

1.—That plaintiff is a banking corporation, organised and existing under a law of the Philippine Islands, and at all times hereinafter mentioned has maintained and still maintains branch office in the city of Shanghai, China, within the jurisdiction of this Honorable Court.

2.—That the defendant is and at all times hereinafter mentioned was an attorney-at-law, duly admitted to practice in this and other American courts in China, and is a member of the law firm of Fleming, Davies and Bryan.

3.—That between the 21st day of January 1921 and the 10th day of February 1921, the said defendant was employed as the latter's attorney-at-law.

That during the course of his employment by the plaintiff, as aforesaid, the said defendant, at the city of Shanghai, China, between the said 21st day of January, 1921, and the said 10th day of February, 1921, obtained from the plaintiff certain confidential information regarding the business, records, affairs and financial condition of the Shanghai branch of the plaintiff, the said information consisting inter alia of full, complete and detailed statements, communicated confidentially by plaintiff to defendant, as aforesaid with respect to certain exchange contracts then and there existing between the plaintiff and certain other banks doing business in the city of Shanghai, China, to wit:

Asia Banking Corporation.
International Banking Corporation.
Equitable Far Eastern Banking Corporation.
Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation.
Chartered Bank of India, Australia and China.
Chinese-American Bank of Commerce.
Netherlands Trading Society.
Sumitomo Bank.
Mitsui Bank.
Shanghai Commercial and Savings Bank.
Sino-Italian Bank.
Netherlands Indies Bank.
Yokohama Specie Bank.
Bank of Taiwan.
Banque Industrielle de Chine.
American Express Company.
Bank of Chosen.

That by means of the aforesaid confidential communications by plaintiff to defendant the said defendant became fully conversant with all the secrets and affairs of the said Shanghai branch of the Philippine National Bank relating to and connected with the said exchange contracts.

4.—That on or about the 25th day of January, 1921, at Shanghai, China, said defendant without the authorisation or consent of the plaintiff and without attempting to secure such authorisation or consent, wrongfully and unlawfully revealed and disclosed to one Robert Buchan, Manager of the Shanghai Asia Banking Corporation, the secrets and confidential information obtained by the said defendant from the plaintiff aforesaid.

5.—That on the 30th day of January, 1921, at Shanghai, China, the said defendant without the authorisation or consent of the plaintiff, and without attempting to secure such authorisation or consent, wrongfully and unlawfully disclosed to a meeting of the representatives of the banks mentioned in Paragraph 3 hereof, the secrets and confidential information secured by the said defendant from the plaintiff as aforesaid.

6.—That by reason of the acts done and committed by the defendant as aforesaid the plaintiff has been damaged in the sum of Taels 500,000.

As a further and second cause of action against the defendant,

FIGHTING IS RESUMED IN HUNAN; GEN. WU TO FRONT

Calls For More Troops To Reinforce His 50,000 Army

IS AFTER PUCHI

Insurgents Driven Back By Chihli Forces Of 3 Generals

(Staff Wire To The China Press)

HANKOW, August 17 (4 p.m.) Fighting between government troops and the combined Hupeh and Hunan insurgents was resumed yesterday at Paichow. Firing was started by the Hunanese, but General Wu Pei-fu immediately ordered not only resistance but also an attack in three directions by Generals Chin Yung-ao, brother of the premier; Chao Chi, brother of the Honan Tuchun and Chang Fu-lai, the Chihli brigade commander.

General Wu is sending for more forces from North China.

Insurgents Are Driven Back By Gen. Wu Pei-fu

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Hankow, August 15 (Delayed).—Reports state that the insurgents reached Kinkow, but were driven back by General Wu Pei-fu's troops, who also recaptured Paotachow yesterday evening.

General Wu Pei-fu has gone to Sienninghsien for the purpose of recapturing Puchi. He has now the command of 50,000 troops in this district.

Later.—It is announced that General Chao Heng-ti has telegraphed to General Wu Pei-fu, with the result that hostilities have ceased, and a peace conference will be held, either at Hankow or Wuchang.

Reports from Kiukiang show that military movements are anticipated there, also that troops from Hankow are expected in that district.

Wu Pei-fu Takes Field Against Insurgents

(Staff Wire To The China Press)

Hankow, August 15 (delayed).—General Wu Pei-fu went to the front this morning to prepare for military operations which will be carried out if mediation with the Hupeh insurgents and Hunan invaders fails. He will supervise the preparations personally, bringing with him from Hankow large quantities of ammunition and food supplies.

While fighting has not yet begun, the allied Hupeh and Hunan forces have retreated about 20 li to Tinghsihchow. Mediation still continues.

The Red Cross Society at Puchi had telegraphically reported that about 400 wounded soldiers formerly under Wang Chan-yuan are in danger of being killed by the insurgents. Threats have already been given to the hospital where the wounded are being confined.

Holland's Queen To Cut Vacation Short

(Reuter's Service)

Trondhjem, August 16.—Queen Wilhelmina, who is spending a holiday in Norway, has gone to Molde Fjord. Thence she goes to Merok and Geiranger. The projected visit to Finmark has been abandoned, as she wishes to return to Holland next week.

Stowaways Accuse Ship Officers Of Smuggling Scheme

(Reuter's Service)

New York, August 16.—Forty half-starved Chinese stowaways were found in the British cargo steamer Bowes Castle. It is believed that they were smuggled aboard at Singapore. Their provisions having been exhausted, they were obliged to eat rats. A Chinese engineer confessed to a plot by which a number of under-officers would share $15,000 if the stowaways were successfully landed.

1922 MUST SEE BIG ECONOMIES ASSERTS HORNE

Exchequer's Head Satisfied With Condition For This But Not Next Year

(Reuter's Service)

London, August 16.—An interesting statement on the financial situation was made in the House of Commons today by the Chancellor of the Exchequer (Sir Robert Horne). He said that during the first four and a half months of the financial year the ordinary revenue had been remarkably steady. The only serious deficiency was involved in the sales of the Disposals Boards and the Excess Profits Duty, but these deficiencies would not wipe out entirely the figure of £78,000,000 which had been earmarked for the redemption of debt. Moreover, a very substantial amount would be obtained from German reparations to help the revenue.

Therefore he did not view this year's position gloomily, but he felt real apprehension as regards 1922. The receipts from the Excess Profits Duty, the sales of war material and the income-tax would then have shrunk considerably. To balance the accounts, therefore, expenditure must be reduced by £130,000,000 as compared with the current year. He claimed that the committee of business men which the Cabinet had appointed would be useful, as showing what particular policies were costing.

Here Is Committee To Balance The Revenues

London, August 16.—In the House of Commons today, Sir Robert Horne (Chancellor of the Exchequer) stated that the committee appointed by the Cabinet to advise it in matters connected with the reduction of expenditure would consist of Sir Eric Geddes (Chairman), Lord Inchcape (head of the P. and O. line), Lord Farringdon (chairman of the Great Central Railway), Sir Joseph Maclay (formerly Shipping Controller), and Sir Guy Granet (General Manager of the Midland Railway). The committee, he added, would sit at the Treasury, and report to the Chancellor of the Exchequer.

Shanghai Schools To Re-open Sept. 7

The current issue of the Municipal Gazette announces that the schools will re-open on Wednesday, September 7, at 8:30 a.m. except in the case of the Thomas Hanbury Schools for which the hour of re-opening will be 9 a.m.

Children of non-resident parents, unless already in attendance at the schools, will not be admitted. The term non-resident implies residence in Shanghai of less than six months.

Forms for the admission of new pupils may be obtained on application at the several schools, and should be presented by the new pupils themselves, when attending at the schools for examination and admission on Friday, September 2, between the hours of 9:30 a.m. and 11:30 a.m. except in the case of the Thomas Hanbury Schools for which the hour of attendance will be Wednesday, September 7, at 9 a.m.

Just As They Say All Well, 5 Are Ill

Following publication of the notice that due to supposed danger of cholera infection passengers from Shanghai for ports in Japan will be detained on arrival by Japanese quarantine officials in detention houses a communication was addressed by the Municipal Council to Mr. K. Yamasaki, Japanese Consul-General calling attention to the fact that recent police and health reports show that the state of public health at present is of a particularly satisfactory character.

After Mr. Yamasaki had replied to this saying that the matter was being communicated to the proper authorities in Japan, the Municipal Council found itself obliged to send a second communication on August 12 and report that in the week ending August 6 five cases of cholera had occurred in the International Settlement. It is set forth in the second letter that the five cases are receiving treatment and consequently no epidemic need be apprehended.

Suit For Tls. 600,000 Filed Against Fleming

plaintiff repeats and reiterates all the allegations contained in Paragraphs 1 and 2 of plaintiff's first cause of action the same as if herein set forth in full, and alleges:

1.—That on the 20th day of July 1921, at Shanghai, China, the defendant by means of a communication addressed to F. J. Schuhl, and H. D. Rodger, wrote, composed and published the following words concerning the plaintiff, to wit:

"The action of the Philippine National Bank at the present time may be described as similar to that of the beast that bites the hand that feeds him. The motive in this matter is undoubtedly two-fold. The reason why Mr. Concepcion, on February 22, 1921, wrote a letter to my firm, discharging us, became apparent when thereafter it appeared he was inclined to repudiate the liabilities of the Philippine National Bank on those exchange contracts and he unquestionably felt that in order to make his purpose good, he had to repudiate us. He did not in his letter, as any gentleman should do in the circumstances, ask us to forward our statement of account nor has he ever asked for it, nor has he of his bank ever settled the balance of their account with us for other services rendered them, for the most part, prior to this time. His present purpose was disclosed at the hearing, when he suggested that the reason why I had described at length the service I was rendering was that I wanted to lay a foundation for a large fee. My reply to this is that his one pufpose, now having failed in the purpose which led him to discharge us originally, is to defeat our claim for the reasonable value of the services rendered, and that he does not make these charges in good faith, but has allied himself with others who are interested only in damaging my good name and the good name of my firm, and to further their own malignant motives."

and also the following words, to wit:

"The repudiation of us and the present attempt to destroy my reputation and the reputation of my firm is based on deceit, falsehood, collusion and treachery. Nothing else, perhaps, may be expected from a banking concern that observes no higher standards than to maintain in the personnel of its staff and as its vice-president a man of the type of Mr. Concepcion; and also nothing more may be expected from a bank which has no greater principles of commercial honor than to wish to repudiate its obligations to other bankers who have accepted them in ordinary course and in good faith," and that by the use and publication of the aforesaid words and language, used and published by the defendant concerning the plaintiff as aforesaid, the said defendant intended to charge and assert, and to be understood as charging and asserting, and was, in fact, understood as charging and asserting, that this plaintiff had been guilty of deceit, falsehood, collusion and treachery; that the said plaintiff had repudiated or intended to repudiate its contracts and liabilities and that the plaintiff observed low standards and principles of commercial honor.

That the said publication was false, scandalous and defamatory and wilfully, wrongfully, knowingly and maliciously written and published by the said defendant with the intent and for the purpose of injuring and damaging the plaintiff;

2.—That the plaintiff has sustained damage by reason of the said false and defamatory publication in the sum of Taels 100,000.

Wherefore plaintiff prays judgment against the defendants and each of them, as follows:

1.—For the sum of Tls. 500,000 on its first cause for action.

2.—For the sum of Tls. 100,000 on its second cause for action.

3.—For its costs and disbursements herein.

4.—For such other and further relief as to the Court may seem just and equitable.

MORO PROBLEM SEEN AS BAR BY FILIPINOS

Wood—Forbes Party Probes Mohammedans' Status In Southern Isles

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Manila, August 9.—Despatches from Mindanao indicate that the Moros have expressed satisfaction with Filipino government in their conference with the Wood-Forbes mission, but fear that the public schools will lead their children away from Mohammedanism.

The Moro problem is admittedly one of the chief obstacles to granting independence to the Philippines, as it is generally believed that the traditional enmity between the Mohammedans and Christians would bring about civil war as soon as the American forces were withdrawn. The Moro provinces have been under American administration since the occupation until a comparatively recent period. There was much hard fighting for years after the Christian portions of the Islands were pacified.

General Pershing and General Wood, who was department commander in Mindanao 15 years ago, both led expeditions against the Moros, and there have been sporadic outbreaks ever since, the most recent being a pitched battle between constabulary and Moros early in May, when ninety-three of the latter were wiped out.

Much of the credit for establishing order in the Mohammedan provinces goes to former Governor Frank G. Carpenter, under whose long administration the Sultan of Sulu, spiritual and temporal chief of the Mohammedans, was induced to give up his temporal power in return for a subsidy from the American Government.

The Wood-Forbes party is now making a thorough investigation of the Mohammedan problem.

(Reuter's Service)

New York, August 16.—A receivership has been granted for the United States Mail Steamship Company, upon the application of the Berwind White Coal Mine Company and other creditors.

Mr. Lasker, chairman of the United States Shipping Board, filed a statement, charging the company with being insolvent when representatives of the Shipping Board seized several of the Board's vessels chartered by the company, some weeks ago, for alleged violation of contract and non-payment of various charges.

Actor Shot By One Watching Play In Hongkong Theater

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Hongkong, August 17.—In the course of a Chinese theatrical performance at the Wo Ping Theater last night, a Chinese suddenly advanced towards the stage and fired, with the result that one of the actors was seriously wounded. The audience rushed out of the theater in a state of excitement, which subsided on detectives arresting the assailant.

Later.—The wounded Chinese actor has died.

Hongkong Court Grants More Time—Defers Hearing To October 18

Hongkong, August 16.—The Supreme Court has granted an application for a further adjournment until October 18, in the winding-up petition in connection with the Banque Industrielle de Chine.

Counsel said that telegrams from Shanghai, Peking and Paris indicated now that a transactional settlement had been granted, that negotiations were proceeding apace and that a reorganisation of the bank appeared imminent. The manager of the Hongkong branch had expressed the opinion that the directors hoped to effect a reorganisation whereby the bank would be taken over by a bank combine under the old or a new name, which combine would take over all the assets of the bank and supply necessary funds to pay liabilities with a view to paying out creditors and depositors in full, thereby maintaining the prestige of the French nation in the Far East.

HOW KWANGTUNG WON WAR FROM KWANGSI FORCES

Real Battle Fought At Tanguen Cost Dearly But Put Enemy To Flight

(China Press Correspondence)

Wuchow, July 28.—It appears to be all over but the shouting, and unless some last minute aid comes to the Kwangsi party very soon its name is Dennis. Today the Cantonese have reached a point on the West River just forty miles from Nanning, and are pushing on to invest the city without further ado. It is thought that they will meet little if any resistance. According to report, Lu Yung-ting has departed for Annam, and some say indeed that the city fathers have already espoused the Cantonese cause, and are simply waiting to hand over the place peacefully.

This is rumor only, but might well be true, for the Chinese are quick to read the handwriting on the wall. Besides the population of Nanning has a strong leaven of Cantonese—as many as twenty thousand, it has been estimated—and their sympathies alike with their interest would dictate such a course. Anyhow, from all indications, the jig is up.

Contrary to press reports at first, it is now seen that from the very beginning the war has been a complete walkover for the Cantonese. The pincer tactic adopted by Kwangsi appeared to be well conceived, but certainly not well executed. They did get their wings out pretty well at first, holding Pakhoi on the southwest for a while, and even Kochow; and on the north they attained a position very close to Shiuchow. But far from menacing the Cantonese center proceeding up the West River, they were not able to maintain their positions, being speedily driven out by the Cantonese wings. General Chen Chiung-ming was criticised somewhat for concentrating on the West River, but it seems that he did the wise thing, for even had the Kwangsi wings closed in on him, it is doubtful if they could have done much with his fleet of gunboats. And at the most they could only have chased him away.

BOATS WIN WAR

These gunboats won the war. Relying on them, the Cantonese were justified in adopting their bold policy of simply making a bee line for Nanning, as the event shows. It is not well to criticise the strategy of the Kwangsi commanders, for the chances are that they were counting on help that never came, but still, on the surface of things, the palm must go to Kwangtung.

The fighting commenced June 20. Guns booming at Fungchuen about ten miles down the river below Wuchow announced it to us, and from then on the population here spent some anxious moments. At that time the Kwangsi forces certainly did not propose to give up Wuchow without a struggle, for they had a respectable army massed here, and had sent a generous contingent down to Fungchuen for the kick-off. They fought desultorily for five days, and then the Kwangsi soldiers began to retreat over the hills. Wuchow got nervous. The soldiers stationed here were remaining and had every intention of defending the town, so it looked as if we would see some action.

There was a general exodus from the city, the people closing their shops and houses, and departing with their most precious chattels for safer pastures. Every foreign compound was crowded to capacity with refugees. You could not have got another one into the Customs enclosure with a shoe horn. The foreigners themselves continued playing tennis. Generally it seems there is not much danger to foreign property in affairs of this kind, and they anticipated no trouble. The French said, "It is a thing that is not received"; the British said, "It is not being done this year," and the chorus said "Maskee." Even the ladies insisted on staying, all but a very few.

PAMPANGA ARRIVES

Meantime the American gunboat Pampanga came up, and soon after the British gunboat Tarantula, bringing H. M. Vice Consul at Canton, Mr. Sly. It was through his good offices that Wuchow escaped a serious dressing down. At first his mediation was unsuccessful, for when the Kwangsi soldiers offered to evacuate the town in case they were allowed twenty four hours respite, the Cantonese replied that they would not accept the condition, but would take the place when they got ready and would make no promises. Gloom in Wuchow, so thick you could have cut it with a knife.

On Sunday, June 26, the Cantonese started for Wuchow in force, but Mr. Sly had another string to his bow, and just in the nick of time he arranged for the peacable investment of Wuchow by the Cantonese on the condition that Kwangsi would evacuate without firing a shot. Late that evening the Cantonese troops arrived in twelve gunboats and the land forces came soon after, with General Ngai Pong-ping in command. Wuchow had fallen! The total casualties were two coolies who died of fright!

TROOPS WELL BEHAVED

Some days later General Chen Chiung-ming himself arrived, and from the very first indeed the Cantonese troops quartered here behaved admirably. There was very little looting, and the confidence of the people was so quickly restored that business went on as usual after two or three days. The only vandalism witnessed by the writer was in the case of houses belonging to Kwangsi men who had formerly been officials in Kwangtung.

The Cantonese soldiers hunted these out and mussed them up considerably, but as some of them explained to me, they were doing it on principle, inasmuch as the money to build these houses had been squeezed out of their own fair province. This was entirely private enterprise, not countenanced in any way by their commanders. On the whole the conduct of the Cantonese soldiers was very good, and reflects credit on them.

Then came the real and only battle of the war. After getting well settled in Wuchow, the Cantonese pushed gradually on up the river, and July 4 they arrived before Tanguen, a small sub-prefectural town on the West River about forty miles above Wuchow. Kwangsi decided to make a stand here, and right there and then ensued the battle of Tanguen, a six day affair full of real fighting.

ATTACK IN FORCE

General Ngai Pong-ping, commanding the Cantonese troops, attacked with twelve gunboats, six aeroplanes, and several land forces. Commanding the Kwangsi forces were Generals Hon Tsoi-fung and Wai Wing-cheung, and both sides went at it hammer and tongs. After six days struggle, Kwangsi was forced to throw up the sponge, and retreated, leaving two thousand dead comrades behind them.

The Cantonese casualties were one thousand killed in this action. Also five hundred ill starred townspeople were ushered into the next world, being caught between the two fires, as for some reason which the writer does not know and cannot imagine, the Kwangsi soldiers would not allow the townspeople to leave the city and seek a place of safety, threatening to shoot any who did so.

Tanguen is a shambles. Those who have seen it since say that there is hardly a stone upon a stone. The bombardment was heavy, and what few buildings were left standing at the finish were burned by the Kwangsi men on departing. There is no foreign property in Tanguen except a Protestant Mission, and it is said that this was unharmed. The missionary had wisely departed while the departing was good.

Since the fall of Tanguen, the Cantonese have maintained a steady procession up the river, taking town after town, and in most cases without so much as firing a shot. Pingnam, Konghau, Kwaiping, and finally Kwaiuen all fell in short order, and at this writing the Cantonese must be very close to Nanning, or indeed, may even have taken it. Unless some help for Kwangsi drops from the skies and that very soon. it is Kwangtung's war.

Empress Presents Silver Cloisonne To Mrs. Morris

Washington, July 14.—Mrs. Roland S. Morris, wife of the former United States Ambassador to Japan, has just received a magnificent gift from the Empress of Japan as a souvenir of her three years' sojourn in the Japanese capital. The gift is a large piece of cloisonne work richly trimmed in silver and engraved with the imperial crest of Japan.

The gift arrived at the Japanese Embassy here a day or two ago and will be presented to Mrs. Morris in Philadelphia immediately.

It is frequently suggested here that Mr. Morris should be a member of the American delegation at the forthcoming international conference in Washington. He is considered the American statesman who has the most up-to-date knowledge of the chief questions which will be in the forefront of the conference program.

Death Comes From Inside Of Us

Prof. Raymond Pearl of Johns Hopkins University has been publishing in the Scientific Monthly, New York, a series of articles on the biology of death. In the June number he discusses the general subject of why we die. Prof. Pearl points out that the human body "is a complex aggregate of cells and tissues, all mutually dependent upon each other and in a delicate state of adjustment and balance. If one organ for any accidental reason, whether internal or external, fails to function normally, it upsets this delicate balance, and if normal functioning of the part is not restored, death of the whole organism eventually results."

By analyzing the death statistics of three widely different localities, the United States, Great Britain and the city of Sao Paulo, Brazil, he finds what diseases are the causes of death and in what proportions.

"In all three localities studied the respiratory and the alimentary tract together account for rather more than half of all the deaths biologically classifiable. These are the two organ systems which, while physically internal, come in contact directly at their surfaces with environmental entities (water, food, air) with all their bacterial contaminations. The only other organ system directly exposed to the environment is the skin. The alimentary canal and the lungs are, of course, in effect invaginated surfaces of the body. The mucous membranes which line them are far less resistant to environmental stresses, both physical and chemical, than is the skin with its protecting layers of stratified and cornified epithelium.

"The organs concerned with the blood and its circulation—the heart asteries and veins, etc.—stand third in importance in the mortality list. Biologically the blood, through its immunological mechanism, constitutes the second line of defense which the body has against noxious invaders. The first line is the resistance of the outer cells of the skin and the lining epithelium of alimentary tract, lungs, and sexual and excretory organs. When invading organisms pass or break down these first two lines of defense the battle is then with the home guard, the cells of the organ system itself, which, like the industrial workers of a commonwealth, keep the body going as a whole functioning mechanism. Naturally it would be expected that the casualties would be far heavier in the first two defense lines (respiratory and alimentary systems and the blood and circulation) than in the home guard. Death rates when biologically classified bear out this expectation.

"It is at first thought somewhat surprising that the breakdown of the nervous system is responsible for more deaths than that of the excretory system. When one bears in mind, however, the relative complexity of the two pieces of machinery, it is perceived that the relative position of the two in responsibility for mortality is what might reasonably be expected."

Every organ of the human body is an outgrowth from one of the three layers of cells that are first developed in the embryo. The layer called endoderm is that which grows into the digestive organs, and it is these that break down most easily. Upon this Prof. Pearl bases a purely gratuitous slap at those who do not believe that human evolution was a mere matter of chance, a "haphazard process of trial and error." For, he says: "It is conceivable that an omnipotent person could have produced a much better machine, as a whole, than the human body which evolution has produced. He would presumably have made an endoderm with as good resisting and wearing qualities as the mesoderm or ectoderm."

To this, one who believes that evolution has been guided by an omnipotent Creator would at once reply: "Yes. He would, if He had desired to make the human body live forever!"

Joan Of Arc Had Hard Luck, Says Mayor Of Orleans

Paris, June 25.—The city of Orleans, famous because of its defense against the English by Saint Jeanne d'Arc, recently suggested through Mayor Laville that the Legion of Honor be given to the city.

Considerable comment was aroused among public officials and several newspapers. It was pointed out that the siege of Orleans and St. Jeanne's defense occurred before the birth of Napoleon, who founded the order.

Mayor Laville, however, turned the tables on those who smiled at his request by citing instances where the red ribbon was given to commemorate deeds also antedating the Legion. "Poor Jeanne never had any luck," the Mayor said. "First it was Bishop Cauchon who had her burned; now it is the government that begrudges her a little bit of ribbon."

Lightning Flash Kills From Cloudless Sky

Chicago, June 18.—Lightning from a clear sky killed Charles Widen of Brookfield, Ill., chief traffic clerk for the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railway, while he was standing in front of his home today.

His wife, who was at a window, witnessed the tragedy. It was declared that the skies were uncrouded at the time.

Children Cry for Fletcher's

CASTORIA

Fletcher's Castoria is particularly a preparation for Infants and Children made agreeable to the taste, acceptable to the stomach and pleasant in its action. It has been in use for over thirty years and has always been one of the most highly esteemed of all cathartic preparations. It has one great advantage over other preparations of its kind in that while it opens the organs readily and completely, it does not have a tendency to produce subsequent constipation so much to be dreaded.

It was only after years of research in the fields of herbs and roots for a combination of purely vegetable matter that would have all the virtues of Castor Oil, without its disagreeable, nauseating properties, especially when used for infants or children, that the formula used in Fletcher's Castoria was found, and which for over 30 years has proven its worth. Try it.

Save the Babies.

Infantry mortality is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in ivilised countries, twenty-two per cent., or nearly one quarter die before they reach one year, thirty seven per cent., or more than one-third, before they are five, and one half before they are fifteen! We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save many of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tincturer and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity, they stupefy, retard circulation and lead to congestion, sickness, death. To avoid any possibility of giving your child opiates, or narcotics of any kind, keep Fletcher's Castoria in the house, and Save the Babies.

FALSE PRETENCE CHARGE AGAINST TURK DISMISSED

The charge brought against Isaac Weinstein, a Turk, in the Mixed Court by Mrs. Sarah Mills was dismissed yesterday by Assessor Blackburn and Magistrate Yui. Complainant alleged that the accused had alleged that her husband was engaged in the counterfeit note traffic between Vladivostok and Shanghai and demanded a share of the proceeds.

Mr. Langley Smith prosecuted while Mr. G. U. Musso acted for the accused. Evidence was introduced yesterday and those who testified included the husband of the complainant, Chief Detective Inspector Burnside and a Russian named Neiman.

the former question as a side issue.

Reports from China indicate that the inclusion of that country in the call for the conference has already strengthened the Peking Government. Half a dozen or more rival Governments have been contending for the mastery in China and America's call will have a great effect in establishing Peking's authority. It is believed that by the time the conference meets order will be brought out of the prevailing confusion, and China will present a solid front at Washington.

TRIBUTE TO HARVEY

There are many tributes to Ambassador Harvey for his efficient handling of United States interests in the pending negotiations. The English Government and representatives of other allied powers in London are said to admire greatly Mr. Harvey's quick grasp of fundamentals and the decision with which he has acted. He has shown a sense of realities and the vital energy supposed to be characteristic of American methods, and credit is given him in the press and political circles for help in bringing matters to a conclusion promptly and satisfactorily.

Optimism on the Irish situation continues as the meeting opens. One cannot help admiring the English for their breadth and magnanimity which create an atmosphere most favorable to results in a very difficult negotiation. After all that has happened in Ireland there is little evidence of resentment here.

"When we think of the Irish we think of what they are and not what they have done," said an Englishman in the Grosvenor lobby today. If a settlement could be reached at this time, when it would be helpful in so many different directions, one can believe that there would be little bitterness in England but rather pretty general good will toward the new Dominion.

CURZON'S FAUX PAS

There might have been some protest against The London Times handling the Prime Minister and the Foreign Minister without gloves, but Lord Curzon has turned feeling against himself by attempting to control the public news of the Foreign Office for personal purposes. Lord Northcliffe is an object of general journalistic envy for his good fortune in having Curzon make him the champion and defender of the independence of the press. Meanwhile, however, The London Times's violent attack on Lloyd George has made the Premier the favorite for the head of the delegation to Washington and Americans in London are bearing testimony to the warm welcome awaiting him in the United States.

Police Investigating Mysterious Shooting

The police have been asked to investigate the mysterious firing of a number of revolver shots that occurred about 10:30 o'clock Tuesday night near the residence of Mr. R. F. O. Block, No. 15 Museum Road. Mr. Block occupies the top flat of these premises and both he and Mrs. Block were startled by the firing and heard four bullets strike the roof of a garage in the rear of their home. When an investigation was made it was found that a fifth bullet had gone through the wind shield of Mr. Block's automobile which was standing near the garage facing south.

CAVALRY GRAB FIFTH GAME BEFORE LOCALS GET GOING; THE FINAL SCORE WAS 10-3

But Discounting First Two Innings, When Shanghai Were Getting Set, Dennison Had 'em Tied; They Play Again Today At 4:30 O'clock

BY ARTHUR WEST

The brunette bandits from the Philippines who have been terrorising this town for the past week stooped to low practices at the baseball park yesterday. First, they started to play before our gang was ready, piling up seven runs while our boys were trying to find their bearings. Secondly, they went right on trying their durndest to grab some more markers, even after we had spotted them an armful to begin with.

The final statistics were 10 to 3, but if it hadn't been for those first two frames we would have given them the licking of their lives, as can be proven by a little elementary arithmetic, thus: Subtract those seven runs from their collection of ten and you have three left, the same as our final total. True, that would have been only a tie, but a tie with those birds would be an overwhelming moral victory for us and a demoralising defeat for them. Easy! As ball tossers our hopefuls are probably the greatest mathematicians that ever booted a grounder.

GOOD AT THE FINISH

Dennison and Merrill, pitching for Shanghai—Dennison with his arm, and Merrill yelping verbal encouragement at him from centerfield—more than held their own after the second frame. Unfortunately for us, however, the place where a ball game starts is at the beginning of it. Except for this rude and ungentlemanly fact we could have spun you a yarn that would have made your breakfast as lively as your dinner was, sad. As the case stands, however, the jazzed bacon and eggs will have to wait.

Dennison held the Cavalrymen to 5 hits, that is, five hits after the second inning. They got five in that frame, and two in the one that preceded it, against a total of seven for the home team At that it was a good ball game if you didn't get there too early. Dennison used a wide sweeping curve that was very effective after he got it to working, and if Cy had only ordered him to pitch the first two innings to a practice coolie behind the grandstand there would have been a different story to tell and you could have smole a smile or two between spoonfuls of cornflakes this morning.

WOLFE SUBS FOR BILLS

Bills, the regular Shanghai shortstop, disappeared after Tuesday's game and has not been heard of since, although it was reported that he had been taken suddenly ill. In his absence Wolfe played short, and put up a creditable game, especially in view of the fact that he was out of position, and was making his first appearance in this important series. In the light of the form he displayed a great many fans wondered why he hadn't been used before. Maybe Cy is saving him for next year.

The visitors scored in the first, thanks to a bullet like drive from Lumpkins to Glauque, which the third sacker stopped with his nose, but too late for a throw to first. Crow muffed a throw from Roeser, intended to stop a theft of second, the ball rolling to right and the runner continuing to third, from where he scored on a single.

The second inning was filled with horrors too numerous to mention. Evans, first up, stopped one in the slats and promptly stole second and third. Pearson fanned and Barnett singled over Cy's head, scoring Evans. Rowlett drove one to right, sending Barnett to third and taking second on the throw in. Miller slammed one to left, scoring Barnett and Rowlett, and went to third while the home boys were throwing the ball around and around, Lumpkins safe on a fielder's choice, Miller cashing at the plate, Lumpkins stole second and third, and was held there when Savage hit a pop up to Dennison. Wolfe stopped Jordan's drive, and held Lumpkins at third. Jordan stole second, and scored, along with Lumpkins, when Martin singled to right. Evans, next up, was out, Wolfe to Wilhoit.

CY WORKS THE SQUEEZE

Wilhoit squeezed Shanghai's first run over in the fifth. He got on by singling through Miller and beat the throw to second on Merrill's tap. Wolfe dumped one in front of the pitcher which the latter couldn't handle, advancing both runners. On a signalled squeeze Cy came in when Roeser hit to short. Merrill, trying to score on the same play, was nicked at the

Comments On The Game

It was unfortunate that Shanghai didn't get a better start. After the second inning the home team settled down and played as good ball as the Cavalrymen. The colored boys were breaking their backs swinging at Dennison's curves, and if the Socony boy had had his customary smoke there might have been a different story to tell. But then, that's what we've been chirping ever since these brunettes hit town.

Lumpkin, the visiting right fielder, grabbed one in the third that was a classic. He came tearing in for the ball, which was a foul, and came up with it after making a headlong dive into the sod, the impetus of which threw him into a series of somersaults. The ump ruled, however, that he had trapped the ball, so his marvelous grab went for nothing.

Bills, shortstopper extraordinary, did not report yesterday, due to illness, with the result that the management was forced to play Wolfe, a course they have been strangely reluctant to pursue heretofore. Aside from fielding his position perfectly until dark and grabbing two hits out of four times up Wolfe didn't do a thing to justify his presence in the line-up.

Wolfe's relay of Smith's throw from left to catch Savage at the plate in the fourth was as neat a bit of defensive play as has been seen here this summer. Savage, who is a ten second sprinter, streaked from second on Martin's hit to left field. Smith, who was too deep to attempt the throw home, slammed the ball to Wolfe, who turned quickly and shot it like a bullet into Roeser's mit just in time for the catcher to nail the visiting speed artist. But this, while pleasing to the impartial fans, was a tactical error on Wolfe's part. He should have heaved it over the grandstand and thereby cinched a berth as a regular for himself.

Merrill further intrenched himself with Shanghai fans, not only by his fine game, but also by reason of his ceaseless gab. From his position in center field he constantly chirped encouragement to his mates, none of whom would have needed it if they had played as he did, and in addition he snared one in the sixth that was ticketed for the lawn bowls club. Offensively the sailor boy hit twice, stole a base on a catcher that mixes T N T with his pegs, and got on four times out of five times up. A hard, clean, peppery player, and here's hoping he grows up to be Secretary of the Navy.

Nelson, one of the Shanghai substitutes who strolled out on the field in civvies, was requisitioned as a base umpire, as a result of which he probably won't be seen in or near a ball park the rest of his life. In the third inning Dennison caught Lumpkins taking a lead off first and whipped the ball to Cy. The first sacker chased the visiting right fielder toward second, and later, when Crow had shooed him back toward first, Cy forced him ten feet off the line to avoid being touched out. But Nelson called him safe, whereupon Cy and all the customers, both paid and deadheads, threw a series of fits. After that they made life miserable for Nelson.

Some of the grand stand strategists seem to find pleasure in "riding" Capt. Wilhoit, entirely overlooking the fact that Cy is out there doing his level best at all times, and usually delivering a brand of ball that managers in a great many league clubs would be willing to pay for. Temporarily, Cy may seem a trifle shy at the plate, but that is due wholly to the fact that his whole left side is in a harness as the result of a recent operation. At that, the Shanghai captain needs no apologists, as he gets as many hits as the next man. If we had eight others like him we would have a ball team.

Some of the spectators on the golf club porch were seen to clap their hands after one of the outfielders had made a difficult catch. Evidently getting their money's worth.

Martin, the crack catcher of the cavalry outfit, got one on the finger of his throwing hand in the eighth. But it didn't do us any good, for no sooner had he stepped out of his box than another man was in there, mask and pad on, ready to take up his task. If we had the left overs from that outfit we would have a team that could clean up the Orient and all way stations.

Terry probably will get the pitching assignment today, and here's hoping. Our advice to him is to mix up speed that they can't see with curves that they can't reach, and to depend for the rest on his prayers and teammates.

DUNLOP BESTS BUCKLEY 21-12 AT LAWN BOWLS

Special Rink Draws Big Crowd; Methodical Style Of Play Wins

BY "THE SHOT"

I must congratulate the S.L.B.C. for their arrangements made for the accommodation of spectators who witnessed the match between Buckley and G. Dunlop yesterday. A special rink was provided and seats were arranged the whole length of the green on each side. As was to be expected quite a lot of interest was taken in the game as both trundlers are of the A1 class and I know it was Joe's ambition to annex this trophy ere he leaves for the homeland and crown greens.

He started well, too, sneaking two singles at the first two ends and up to the 14th all it was anyone's game. They peeled at eight and nine and then Geordie seemed to gradually get the upper hand, finally winning by 21 points to 12.

Geordie owes his victory to his methodical style of play and I don't know of any bowler who is so deadly at drawing to the jack. He now waits for the winner of the Aitkenhead-Wheeler tie and should he and Bobbie come together for the final the game should certainly be a "humdinger."

For spectacular shots Joe was probably the best and one end certainly deserves mention. Geordie was lying two beauties and Joe decided to lay one behind and then go for the jack. This he accomplished, driving the jack to the ditch and scoring two points, a shot which was much appreciated by the spectators.

Bowlers Wanted For Interport Play At Hongkong

The committee of the Shanghai Lawn Bowls Association is issuing a call to all bowlers who can get away in September, to indicate their willingness and availability to compete for Shanghai in the interport matches with Hongkong.

Lists have been posted on all notice boards of the various bowling clubs forming the association, but to date results have been almost negligible.

Hongkong telegraphed recently asking that Shanghai set a date for the interport matches. The local committee hopes to have a list of players to hand immediately so that the arrival at Hongkong of the Shanghai team may be wired.

Lawn bowlers are urged to get busy.

French Girl Tennis Champ Quits Courts In Tears As Illness Forces A Default

(Reuter's Service)

Forest Hills, N.Y., August 17.—In a sensational match in the second round of the Women's National Lawn Tennis Championships, Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen defaulted to Mrs. Mallory at the beginning of the second set, after losing the first set 2-6. Mlle. Lenglen was helped off court, crying and coughing badly. She is expected to recover shortly.

Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen is the champion woman tennis player of the world. When she left Europe for America on July 23 she was apparently in the best of health and optimistic for a successful tour. She planned to play in the Women's National Lawn Tennis Championships at Forest Hills, and at the National Mixed Doubles Championships at Longwood, beginning August 22.

Mlle. Lenglen also expected to play in a number of exhibition matches during August and September. She was flooded with invitations throughout America to participate in exhibitions, and finally cut her program down to ten exhibitions in the East and Middle West.

To secure funds for devastated France and her unfortunate countrymen in those sections was the chief motive of Mlle. Lenglen's tour of America. Her schedule and all details of her participation in American tennis were arranged by the American Committee on Devastated France.

SWIMMING CLUB LOSES AT WATER POLO TO S. R. C.

Rowing Club Clinches Hold On Ewo Shield By Victory; Score 6-2

Last night in their own bath the Rowing Club clinched their hold on the Ewo Shield, the handsome trophy presented five seasons ago by Mr. John Johnstone for competition among the local swimming clubs in connection with the Shanghai Water Polo League. Their opponents were the Shanghai International Swimming Club, whom they defeated in their first meeting a couple of weeks ago to the tune of 9 goals to one.

This time the S. I. S. C. were reinforced by the assistance of Ozorio, their regulation goalkeeper but they were without the services of either Mears, their star forward and interport selection, or C. Encarnacao, the Hon. Sec. of the local amateur swimming association, who is reported as unlikely to swim again for some time owing to the perforation of the drum of his ear.

The visitors put up a game fight for the honors, and one of their forwards, A. A. Remedios in center, notched the opening score of the game, receiving a goal throw through an error of Harris, the S. R. C. custodian. He placed the leather neatly between the posts, drawing first blood for his side. J. B. Brown, the Rowing Club left forward equalised, but a good shot of Raeburn on the right attacking line of the visitors again put the S. I. S. C. ahead.

TIED IN FIRST HALF

Before the whistle went for half-time Wallin in the center scored for the Rowing Club and the sides crossed over with the score board reading:

S.I.S.C.	2 goals
S.R.C.	2 goals

In the second half the Rowing Club were attacking the larger goal, the S.I.S.C. defending the shallow end, and they had matters more or less their own way. Wallin scored three more goals for the home team and Brodie one, so the final score as the

Australia Score 389 In First Innings As Against England's 403 In One Inning For 8 Wickets And 244 For 2 Wickets In Second

(Reuter's Service)

London, August 16.—Glorious weather favored the concluding day's play at the Oval in the fifth and final test match, which was witnessed by 12,000 spectators. The wicket was in excellent condition.

Andrews (59), and Taylor (who did not go to the wicket yesterday) resumed Australia's first innings, which stood at 162 for three wickets at the close of yesterday's play. The Australian batting was forceful and spectacular. Andrews played a superb innings, his crisp cutting being specially attractive. He was batting two hours in all for 94 runs—the top score of his side—and hit 11 fours. Taylor also stayed in two hours for an excellent 75, and hit 10 fours. Douglas and Parkin each took three of the wickets, and Hitch and Woolley captured two apiece.

England started their second innings at 3.25, and scored quickly, despite the excellent fielding. Russell played a sterling innings of 102 not out, hitting 10 fours, and was largely responsible for the creditable score of 244 for two wickets which was on the board at the call of time. The match thus ended in a draw, like the previous one. Scores and analysis:

TENNIS LEAGUE FOURTH ROUND ON TOMORROW

Portuguese Leaders Draw A Bye; C.C.C. Runner Up Meets Cercle Sportif

The fourth week's play in the City League Tennis tournament of the Shanghai Tennis Association which is scheduled for tomorrow evening find the leaders, the Portuguese Sporting Association laying over on a bye.

The day's program follows:

Recs vs. Country Club.
Cercle Sportif vs. C. C. C.
Japanese vs. Cricket Club.

The matches will be played on the courts of the first named, except possibly that between the Japanese and S. C. C., which may be taken to the latter's grounds because of the small space and playing accommodations on the Japanese club's grounds. The first and only other game the Japanese had scheduled on their own grounds was transferred by special arrangement to those of their opponents, the C.C.C.

The Columbia Country Club which now stands second in the table of League Tennis records cannot overtake the Portuguese club tomorrow even by winning all of its five matches against the French players. A perfect score tomorrow for the C.C.C. men would still leave the Portuguese in the lead with 13 points as compared to the C.C.C's. 12.

Our portrait is of Mrs. WOODROW, of 56, Robinson Road, Tooting, London, England, whose husband writes:

"My wife has suffered very badly for the past four or five years with Piles, being unable to sleep at night or get any relief during the day. She tried several advertised remedies, none of which did her any good. Some three weeks ago she thought she would try 'Clarke's Blood Mixture,' and before she had taken half a bottle she was better, and by the time she had finished the second bottle she was quite cured. She can now sleep well, eat well, and get about her work, and her general health is better than it has been for years." In a further letter some eight months later Mr. Woodrow writes: "I am pleased to say that since my wife's cure of Piles in September, 1918, there has been no sign of return of the trouble."

CLARKE'S BLOOD MIXTURE, by reason of its remarkable blood purifying properties, can be relied upon to give speedy relief and lasting benefit in cases of Eczema, Bad Legs, Abscesses, Ulcers, Boils, Pimples, Eruptions, Piles, Glandular Swellings, Rheumatism, Sciatica, Gout. FRANCE IN GRIP OF BIG CIVIL SERVICE

Has 717,000 State Employees, Or One For Every Fifty Inhabitants

HARD BUDGET PROBLEM

Number Increased About 40 Percent, Expenses At Least 360

Paris, June 11.—France is being strangled by a veritable army of state emplees, the bureaucracy having developed since the war to such an extent that there is now one functionary for every fifty inhabitants, a record never attained in any other nation. It is this condition which is proving one of the sorest budget problems, for while the total number has increased about 40 percent this represents an increase in expenditures of at least 360 percent, with nothing but disorganised, trouble-some groups to show where the money is going.

Members of the Parliamentary Finance Commission are insisting that a comprehensive reform in administration which will affect every ministry must be devised immediately if France is not to succumb beneath the burden.

Economic students are finding in France's condition a remarkable proof of the war's effect on the population. There is not a single governmental department which is not conforming to the theory that war is productive of laziness. As a result, where 533,000 persons were sufficient to carry on the nation's affairs profitably in 1913, today's total for even less work reaches 717,000, a half million of whom are permanent members of France's civil service. And this does not include the army and navy, whose officials are generally considered to be State functionaries.

The greatest increase is found in the War Department, however, the beaurocrats there jumping from 31,000 to 67,000 since the war commenced, although apart from actual operations it is really not necessary to have extensive staffs in any of the divisions except those handling pensions. The employees of the Ministry of Justice remain at 14,000, while the Ministry of Public Works, despite the improvements in roads made necessary as a result of the invasion, has not changed from the 1913 figure of 17,000.

All other departments tell the same story of overstaffing, which will be corrected as soon as the leaders understand fully the danger to France's prestige abroad.

Gov't. Passenger Service Hard Hit

Trains Hauled More Persons During April But The Funds Realised Shows A Decrease

Tokio, June 12.—The effect of bad times on railway business in Japan is more notable than before, the passenger service being badly hit and the revenue falling off.

According to a report from the Department of Railways, April's passenger service revenue reached Y22,246,952 while the month's freight service revenue amounted to Y13,718,852. The total of the month's income amounted to Y35,965,804. The number of passengers carried amounted to 57,028,825. The tonnage of cargo carried reached 4,378,474 tons.

Compared with April, 1920, the tonnage of cargo carried fell off 698,416 tons. But the freight service income increased Y2,037,720 because of the increase effected in rates. A notable point is that while the number of passengers increased 8,005,054 the revenue fell off Y1,379,538.

This decrease in the passenger service revenue is indicative of the growing seriousness of bad times' effect. The number of passengers increased on the greater heaviness of inter-urban traffic, that is, the increase of short distance travelers. But distance travelers fell off. More notably first and second class passengers decreased in April.

Rowing Club 6 goals
International S.C. 2 goals

Mr. J. H. McGregor made an excellent referee, his decisions invariably finding favor both with spectators, partisans of both clubs, and players alike. It is no small tribute to Mr. McGregor that, though he is the most prominent official of the S.I.S.C., with which he has been associated intimately and actively almost since the foundation of that club, he has been chosen to referee the two matches that his team has played this season against the Rowing Club.

VICTORS DESERVE WIN

The winners deserved their victory on the game last night but they cannot afford to play so leisurely against the S. I. S. C. in the game for the "Hongkong Cup" on the 10th proximo at the S.I.S.C. gala, when no doubt Mears will be doing duty in the forward line for his club. On more than one occasion the marking, or rather the absence of marking, by the Rowing Club backs left a fine chance for the S. I. S. C. to score, and on one occasion, when Raeburn put through their second goal in the first half, they took advantage of it.

Harris played satisfactorily in goal for the winners, and this young player betwen the posts is now in the running for interport honors, owing to the regrettable fact that Torry Wilson has notified the selection committee of his inability to travel South next month. It rests between him and Ozorio now for this place on the team.

The winning Rowing Club VII last night was as follows:

Goal: H. E. Harris; backs: J. Krygsman and L. Goldman; halfback: R. W. MacCabe; forwards: B. Wallin, J. B. Brown and E. A. Brodie.

plate, Barnett to Martin. Glauque hit to Lumpkins, retiring the side.

In the eighth, with one down and Glauque on first, Smith doubled to center. Glauque tried to score, but was out at the plate, Savage to Rowlett to Martin, Smith advancing to third, from where he scored when Martin threw wild to Evans.

In the ninth Cy tallied another one, thanks to a three base muff of his fly by Jordan in center. Merrill brought him in with a drive through Rowlett.

The visitors scored one in the seventh and two more in the ninth, by way of rubbing it in.

Paris Masters Devise New Exotic Dances

New Steps Include Maligned Shimmy And Tango With Frills

Paris, June 18.—Instead of the shimmy, the fox trot and the tango being buried beneath the ridicule of the moralists, Parisian dancing masters have decided to increase the vogue of these dances and are even devising three new ones for next season, which will include the most intricate contortions of the much maligned exotic steps. Even the ballet masters of the Paris Opera have given their approval to this, declaring that, after all, the shimmy is only an adaptation of old Greek, Roman and Egyptian dances.

Among the new dances are the "slingan," which combines the Boston and the fox trot; the "gliding," which is composed of the polka and the shimmy, and the "farruca," which promises to keep the orchestras as well as the dancers satisfied, as besides embracing the American jazz features it will require knowledge of the maxixe, the tango and the old fashioned schottische to dance it correctly.

Conseil D'Administration Municipale De La Concession Francaise de Changhai

MUNICIPAL LOAN OF 1921

(20,000 debentures of Tls. 100 each),

Rate of interest 8% per annum

The "Conseil d'Administration Municipale de la Concession Francaise de Changhai" hereby invite subscriptions for 20,000 debentures of Tls. 100 each, according to the resolution passed at their General Meeting on May 30, 1921.

The conditions on which the Debenture Certificates will be issued are:—

1°—The Debenture Certificates are transferable, and the person whose name is entered in the Register of Debenture Certificate or Certificates, shall alone be recognised and treated by the Council as the lawful and rightful holder and owner of such Debenture Certificate or Certificates.

2°—The loan will be redeemable at par (Tls. 100) in not less than 10 years and not more than 30 years, from 1st July, 1931 and according to the figures determinated by the Council.

3°—The loan will bear interest at 8% per annum, payable on the 30th day of June and 31st of December in each year, when interest warrants will be issued to the registered owners.

4°—The property and income of the Municipality, deducting those which serve as security provided in the Municipal Loans of 1903, 1911, 1914 and 1916 are the security for the repayment of the money advanced and for the interest thereon in the present loan.

The Members of the French Municipal Council are not personally liable in any way for the payment of either principal or interests.

5°—Applications for debentures will be received at the Secretary's Office, Rue du Consulat.

A cheque representing the amount of debentures asked for must be deposited at the same time.

6°—Applications for Debentures under par will not be recognised by the Council.

7°—For further informations, apply to Mr. P. LEGENDRE, Secretary, French Municipal Council.

Shanghai, 1st July, 1921.
P. LEGENDRE,
Secretary.

IF YOU WORRY, READ THIS

Useful Hints for Dark Days

Worry never brought any good to anybody. Still, you say, "I don't worry because I want to; it is because I can't help it"; or, "I worry because I have so much to worry about."

We all have our troubles, and worry, of course, makes matters worse. The patient generally recognises this fact without being influenced in any way by it.

The doctor who could meet this nervous condition and cure it would be the most popular man alive. He cannot do it, however, because the form of nervous exhaustion known as neurasthenia, of which worry is a characteristic symptom, must be cured to a large extent by the patient.

But as the nerves depend upon the blood for nourishment, it naturally follows that by building up and reinvigorating the blood the patient is tackling the actual root of the trouble. And that is why Dr. Williams' pink pills have proved so successful in cases of neurasthenia and nervous debility, for they supply the pure rich blood necessary to feed the nerves.

You should write today for the book "The Nerves and Their Needs," and read the chapter on neurasthenia. Many people have written, "This describes my case exactly; I am trying the treatment and being benefited." A copy will be sent free if you address a post card to Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 96 Szechuen Road, Shanghai.

Dr. Williams' pills are a true nerve tonic particularly suitable for nervous, neurasthenic people. Most dealers sell them, or direct and post free at $1.50 per bottle, $8 for 6 bottles, from the above address.

WEATHER

The typhoon, with a reduced speed will continue to advance towards Kiusiu and the Van Diemen Strait. If it continues towards N-W, or inclines to W-N-W, one may expect cyclonic gales on the Yellow Sea, possibly with tidal waves along the coast. Strong northerly winds off the Saddles. Cooler weather.

What The Allies Owe To Russia

THE exact extent of the famine in Russia appears not to be known; and this is natural, for Russia is an immense country, not over-supplied with means of communication, and such as there are have deteriorated during the seven years' war that it has seen. That there is a famine is not questioned, and it may be worth while to pay some attention to the causes of it, alleged by Mr. Lenin himself, according to a Reuter telegram just received. The two causes given are the country's superannuated methods of agriculture and the seven years' war, the war "imposed upon peasants and workers by the capitalists of the world."

There is a third cause, not mentioned, perhaps because too obvious to require mention: the failure of the harvest. There are some, doubtless, who will set down the failure of the harvest as the sole cause of the famine. It will be contended that no government on earth, aristocratic, democratic, socialist or capitalist, can control the weather. This is true, and in so far as it is true it is a very good reason why the whole world should do what it can to relieve the distress that has come upon millions of sufferers in Russia. Their suffering is not primarily due to either their own improvidence—improvidence is a mere term of mockery when applied to the conditions under which the Russian peasant has for generations lived—or to the folly of their rulers. It is what the insurance companies describe as "an act of God."

There are however contributory causes, and to two of these Mr. Lenin points: the antiquated system of agriculture and the seven years' war. Of these two the latter is the one that should more strongly compel the rest of the world to give what succor it can to the famine-stricken. What is meant by the seven years' war? First of all it means the share that Russia took in the Great War. More than one historian of the future will, in answer to the question "Who won the War?" give his verdict in favor of Russia.

In the first part of the War it was the duty of Russia so to pre-occupy the armies of the Central Powers that the Western Powers could get their fighting machine thoroughly in order and developed to the highest pitch of perfection. Had it not been for Russia, for the Russian drives almost to the very heart of the Central Powers, the story would have had a different ending. It was the constant harassing of the Central Powers by Russia that made it possible for the Entente to hold out not merely until they themselves were able to strike their smashing blows, but until the United States could throw its sword into the scale and make a decisive victory both possible and early. There came a time when Russia could do no more; but Russia's great service—to capitalism as some assert, to democracy as others affirm, but in either case to the non-Russian world as much as to herself—was by that time accomplished; and the least the world can do now is to pay its debt of honor.

But that is only part of the seven years' war. The debt that the world owed to Russia has been more than offset by the wars that until the past few months have been waged against Russia by practically every one of the Entente Powers. Russian economic life, never highly organised, had been thrown completely out of gear by Russian participation in the Great War. The Revolution in Russia, though momentarily adding to the disorganisation, would have made for rapid and complete re-organisation had it not been for the fact that from the moment the Revolution began to be a real thing, the Entente Powers made systematic war against the new Russia and struck the final blow at Russian economic life, so that what there is of economic life in Russia today is not the healing of a wounded and bruised and mutilated body, but an absolutely new thing, a new birth, even a new creation.

This new creation is yet far from complete, but several days' work has been done on it. The New Russia is turning all her broken-down machinery to better use. Nobody who has followed at all closely the news from Russia can fail to have been struck by the fact that the New Russia is adopting wholesale every modern appliance and method to reduce human labor to a minimum, and to bring the produce of that labor up to the maximum. Electrification is proceeding apace; mass production is adopted wherever possible; education is being directed so as to make every child ultimately a productive factor, and to prevent any child being fitted for a life of idleness.

The agricultural problem is being taken in hand with the same thoroughness. Peasants are being not merely encouraged but taught and helped to adopt more effective methods of agriculture. Lecturers and practical demonstrators are being sent into almost every district and giving courses of expert instruction in the things that the peasant needs to know. On the great railways are to be seen traveling lecture cars, occupied by teachers and experts whose business it is to pioneer this new learning.

In spite, however, of all that is being done to recreate the economic life of Russia, the famine has come. The bad harvest would have come in any case, but the dire effects of a bad harvest might be offset in a country whose economic organisation was in an advanced state. When there is famine or the prospect of a famine in India, which is the closest parallel case, every energy of the authorities is devoted to averting the disaster, by subordinating to this consideration every other, so that means of communication may be employed to transport foodstuffs from areas of surplusage to areas of deficit. Even in India, however, with all its facilities, and with an ever-watchful Government service on the alert for indications of famine, the threat of which is so perennial as to demand such measures, it is impossible to eliminate the distress that follows crop failures on a large scale. What is to be expected then in a country which even before the War was not over-organised, which has had all its organisations destroyed by the War, and has been prevented by a dozen or so wars forced on it from without from re-organising? Had there not been the harassing wars stirred up by reactionary groups, aided and abetted by reactionary or ill-informed governments, it is quite possible that Russia herself could have dealt with the situation that has arisen.

The more or less private wars that Mr. Winston Churchill has waged against Russia have admittedly cost the British taxpayer £42,000,000, which probably means that they have actually cost at the very least a hundred millions sterling; and the amount spent by France is estimated at not less than two hundred millions sterling. Now, it is quite certain that Russia's victory over these aggressive forces cost at least as much, say three hundred millions sterling, to which must be added the wholesale destruction of crops, property and industrial machinery carried out systematically by Denekin, Wrangel, Yudenitch and others of that kidney, especially on their retreats, a total which may be set down, and indeed has been set down, at nearly five hundred millions sterling, and we have at a conservative estimate a total wastage of, say, seven hundred and fifty millions sterling.

Nobody can say that the expenditure of this sum on productive activities during the past three years would have made no difference to the famine situation in Russia. Critics may try to place the responsibility for the present conditions in Russia on the shoulders of the Moscow Soviet. The worst sins of which the Soviet Government may have been guilty cannot have cost the Russian people much more than the little bill that the Entente has made them pay during the past three years. The very minimum of reparation would seem to be the most generous assistance in fighting the famine.

RHYMES OF THE TIMES

The Japs put us in quarantine,
(Of news a heated topic,)
The little people seem so keen
On things quite microscopic;
If they pursue this attitude
They'll find themselves deserted,
Their glory fade,
And all their trade
To other parts diverted.

A ray of hope in Ireland
Still lingers—and we're hoping
That Pat will give John Bull the hand
Of friendship—and in coping
With things concerning Empire needs
The Emerald Isle, while wearing
Its native green
May yet be keen
To help with the deeds of daring.

BRIAND'S ATTITUDE

Briand's attitude over the Silesia question, and any other question giving Germany any power, reminds one of Macbeth's speech:

We have scotched the snake, not killed it,
She'll rise and be herself while our poor malice
Remains in danger of her former tooth,
But let the frame of things disjoint, both the worlds suffer
Ere we will eat our meal in fear and sleep in the afflictions
Of those terrible dreams that shake us nightly.
Better be with the dead, whom we to gain our peace
Have sent to peace, than on the torture of the mind to lie
In restless ecstacy!

AN ACCOMMODATING UMPIRE

England's fine score in the fifth and last test match brings joy to the hearts of cricketers. England's captain, the Hon. Lionel Tennyson, eldest son of the present Lord Tennyson, and grandson of the poet, has a wonderful fund of good cricket stories. One of his favorite concerns Hearne, the Middlesex and All England batsman and bowler. This great cricketer had been prevailed upon to play at a charity match in a remote country village, and there was almost a panic among the little cricketing fishes in the presence of the leviathan.

Perhaps for this reason Hearne was tempted to take liberties. Anyway, he ventured on an impossible run and was obviously out.

But when the question was put to the umpire—a rustic—his courage failed. Turning to the batsman, he said, "Now, Mr. Hearne you know more about these things than I do: what should you say?"

"I should say 'Not Out,'" replied Hearne promptly.

"And so say I, Mr. Hearne," exclaimed the umpire. "Lads get on with the game."

THE VERDICT

Two negroes were being driven from the court, after being sentenced.

"Sambo, what did you get?" asked one.

"Four years. What dey give you?"

"From now on," was the melancholy reply.

Correspondence

JAPANESE KULTUR

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS

Dear Sir: I am given to understand that the disgusting and unnecessary quarantine regulations with which all visitors to Japan are acquainted, are once more in force as regards passengers from Shanghai. This, in spite of the fact that Shanghai is declared by the Port Health authorities to be free of any infection necessitating such quarantine measures. Further, I understand that these revolting quarantine regulations require an enforced delay of 36 hours in harbor while the highly educated Japanese health officials amuse themselves with scientific investigation.

Cannot the Japanese authorities recognise that this is the sort of thing that is killing the tourist business in Japan?

Or is it absolutely necessary to give certain Japanese officials something to do to occupy their minds and keep them out of mischief? Enclosing my card. Yours, etc.

HAWKERS THAT MURDER SLEEP

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS

Sir.—Mr. Bruce Hopper's article on hawkers' noises hit me all of a heap. Now I want to ask, What are we going to do about it? Perhaps the Chinese may tolerate or even enjoy the weird medley of cries that rises from this city day and night but to foreign nerves, it is intolerable. I live on a residence street in the French concession. Only one block of Chinese houses lies along it and that is mainly on a side street. Yet there is a constant parade of hawkers, selling everything under the sun, from pickled cabbage at dawn to Japanese bath towels at eventide. But the worst pests are those misguided individuals who invade my dooryard when in this hot weather I am trying for forty winks after tiffin. They are the chicken man whose chickens invariably die within a few hours after their purchase and the pongee silk seller whose wares are always defective and much dearer than the same quality, yes and better, in the regular silk shops.

What right have they to invade my privacy either in person or with their monotonous yells? Mr. Hopper may find some of their cries musical, but if he were awakened every time he tries to snatch a cat nap, just as he gets to sleep, no easy matter these hot days, he would change his tune and try to make the hawker abandon his own discord altogether. Enclosing my card, I am, Yours, etc.

Winifred Black On Gifts Of Flowers

BY WINIFRED BLACK

"No Flowers." I saw that in the paper the other day, in the announcement of the funeral of an old friend.

I'm sorry.

I would have liked to have sent a white rose to lay upon her heart—the tired heart, worn out with bearing the woes of others.

"No flowers"—and how she loved flowers when she was alive!

She had plenty of them, too. Her friends saw to that, and she saw to it herself. Always and always she managed somehow to wear a little knot of violets or pansies, or primroses or fragrant green mignonette, or blue forget-me-nots or something, just so it was a flower, and her simple sitting-room was always gay with blossoms. She didn't always know the names of all the new books, but she could tell you the names of every flower in her garden and every wild blossom in the fields.

She always had the first Spring beauties. Early in April she found them, and she never would tell where it was they grew—pretty, delicate, striped things, pink and white—how sweet they looked in the glass bowl where she used to put them!

The first fleur-de-lis were hers, too. "Blue flags," she called them, in the old-fashioned way. She could find them before any of the rest of us knew that Spring had really come.

What ferns she had in her little conservatory! Delicate, graceful things that she dug up in the woods herself and brought home and tended with the loving care a good mother gives a delicate child.

"No flowers"—I wonder why.

Send all the flowers you can, that's what flowers are for, to give happiness. And when those we love are gone, what else can you do to show your last tribute of devotion but to send to the house of mourning a simple, honest gift of flowers?

Flowers! Give them to me while I am here to love and enjoy, dear friend of my heart, but, oh, when I am gone, came to the chamber of my last resting place with flowers, too!

I shall know—somewhere I shall know. And what you meant and could not say, what you regretted and dared not speak—I shall see and understand.

"THEY DID KNOW HER"

I love to see flowers in the room where some tired soul has lain down and gone to sleep.

I love to see lilies at the foot of the last couch of a beautiful girl.

And who does not like to carry roses to the grave of a beautiful woman who has loved and suffered and laughed and been forgiven?

It is a beautiful custom to send flowers to those who have smiled their last good-bye.

And it is such a relief to the sad hearts to see them.

Don't you remember, long and long ago, when the one you loved best in the world went away on the long, long journey, how it eased your heart to see the flower brought by the friends and neighbors who had known her all her simple, kindly life?

"They did not know her," you thought. "They understood her, after all. How pleased she would be if she could see how much they loved her."

You like to think that perhaps she did see them. Maybe she looked down from some serene height somewhere and smiled to see the wreath woven by some chubby pair of little trembling hands—hands that she had often filled with candies of her own making.

AT ALL TIMES

How cold it would seem, how unfeeling, the funeral without flowers! Why should we make death any more terrible, any more barren and forbidding than it is, anyhow?

Foolish to lay flowers upon the last resting place of those we love? How can anything be foolish that is such a relief to the sad heart?

Send flowers to those who live, roses and lilacs and forget-me-nots.

The Rhyming Optimist

BY ALINE MICHAELIS

(Solid Comfort)

When I get home at eventide I'm somewhat petered out, I seek a chair that's deep and wide, as well as extra stout. I shed my collar and my coat, I cast aside my shoes, and for a happy hour I gloat upon the daily news. For I am bound to keep in touch with all that's going on, and so I read about the Dutch, the Hindoos and Nippon. I read about the debts of war, the novels and the stage, and then I turn where big things are—I mean the sporting page! With breathless interest I read the news that brings a thrill; how Jimmy Jones puts on more speed, how Johnson hits the pill! I learn how Smithers stole a base, how Miller scored on one, how Bingtown's League secured top place with batting and home run. I read of golf and polo match, of sporting experts' views, I revel in the southpaw's catch, and all such thrilling news. The front page shows the wide world's pace, important stuff, in truth, but I am hunting for the space that tells about Babe Ruth. When I come home at close of day I simply cannot fail to see what all the papers say about the comet's tail; but hastily I skim their views, for I would fain be done and free to read the latest news about the team's home run!

The Newest Sweaters

BY RITA STUYVESANT

Whether you knit or crochet your own sweater or buy it you will be delighted with the season's unusually dainty models.

Of a deep raspberry silk is a smart sweater for sports wear. A simple crochet stitch is made into a Tuxedo model of hip length and shows a long rever facing the front opening. A long crocheted girdle of the silk is heavily tasseled at the ends and swung from the left hip. A distinctive touch is the gray pleated Canton crepe skirt that accompanies it, with gray or red leather sport pumps and a gray felt hat.

Sulphur worsted is knitted into a smart sweater with trimmings of white Angora and worn with a white flannel skirt striped in orange. This sweater is also a Tuxedo model, as most fashionable sweaters are this season, and the rever, cuffs and girdle are of the white Angora.

Occasionally one finds a slip-on model, but these are not so long as formerly, coming but a few inches below the waistline. Lettuce green silk, crocheted in a beautiful sheelstich, develops a dainty sweater for Summer afternoons, and is furnished with a narrow white kid belt, buckled at the front. The sleeves are of elbow length, and the neck a square one. This skirt is worn with a silver baronet satin skirt, and the effect is really quite striking.

For real sports wear there is nothing so attractive or practical as the slip-on alpaca sweater, and it may be worn with a silk or dimity blouse and necktie. One model in henna comes in a smart ribbed effect and shows a rather deep V neck. The sleeves are long and there is a tasseled sash of the henna that ties in the back. The collar and cuffs of the blouse are worn on the outside of the sweater and give a tailored appearance.

Black silk, in a well tailored Tuxedo style, lends itself gracefully to many day-time occasions, and may be worn with a white hand-drawn blouse and black and white striped wool skirt. A straight sailor hat, too, goes well with this type of sweater.

TEXACO

TEXACO CRATER COMPOUND

The Great Gear Lubricant

Texaco Crater Compound is a special lubricant for heavy gears and wire rope. It preserves gears; shields them from dust and dirt, prevents friction, and eliminates machinery noise. Use "Crater" on all heavy gears working under conditions of extreme pressure. It clings to gear teeth when nothing else will, but is fluid enough to allow free lubrication.

As a preservative for wire rope and chains, Texaco Crater Compound is invaluable. It forms a film of lubricant which protects from the action of weather, chemical fumes and contaminated water.

Wire rope and chains coated with "Crater" will last twice as long.

Gears lubricated with it will work noiselessly and more efficiently.

TEXACO CRATER COMPOUND IS THE GREAT GEAR AND WIRE ROPE LUBRICANT

Berlin Bell Breaks Tolling For Kaiserin

Cast In 1417, Weighed 8,000 Pounds, 6 Feet In Diameter And Had Fine Tone

Berlin, June 18.—Berlin has just learned that the largest bell in the cathedral was broken while tolling for the funeral of Kaiserin Auguste Victoria and that having bidden adieu to this member of the Hohenzollern family it will never be heard again.

The bell had one of the most beautiful tones of any bell in all Germany. It was cast in 1471 and weighed 8,000 pounds. It is six feet in diameter. It was placed by Frederick the Great in 1747 in the tower of a cathedral, which then stood in the Lustgarten, near the royal palace in Berlin. It was installed in the present cathedral when that structure was completed seventeen years ago.
